

Call for Papers for Journal of Dialogue Studies

Spring 2015, Volume 3, Number 1

'Social Scientific and Historical Analysis of Dialogue Practice'

The Journal of Dialogue Studies is a multidisciplinary, peer-reviewed academic journal published twice a year. It seeks to bring together a body of original scholarship on the theory and practice of dialogue for appraisal and discussion, and to help to establish Dialogue Studies as a distinct academic field. It publishes conceptual, research and/or case-based works on dialogue theory and practice, and papers that discuss wider social, cultural or political issues as these relate to the evaluation of dialogue.

For the fourth issue, to be published in Spring 2015, the editors invite:

- Papers on the social scientific and historical analysis of dialogue practices
- Papers on the theme of 'dialogue ethics' (see vol 2, no 1) or 'critiquing dialogue theories (vol 2, no 2)
- Other papers within the general remit of the journal

Papers on the social scientific and historical analysis of dialogue practices might address the following issues:

- Mapping the existing field of practice and study.
- Sociological and historical analysis of the perception of the need for 'dialogue'
- How dialogue practices have been shaped by overlapping areas of theory, policy and practice
- How dialogue theories have impacted upon societal issues and discourse

For more information:

<http://www.dialoguesociety.org/publications/academia.html>

journal@dialoguesociety.org

Academic Editor:
Prof Paul Weller, Derby
University

For editorial team and board please see website

Key dates

- Paper submission
deadline:
11th January 2015
- Announcement of
running order:
March 2015
- Publication of issue:
May 2015

INSTITUTE for DIALOGUE
STUDIES